Re: FOIA Control No. 2018-410

Dear Mr. Chelmowski:

This is in response to your application for review<sup>1</sup> of the Office of General Counsel's (OGC) fee estimate<sup>2</sup> in response to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, FOIA Control No. 2018-410. By this letter, we dismiss your application for review for failing to raise grounds meriting Commission review and for being duplicative.

The only argument you raise regarding the estimate contained in the Fee Estimate Letter is to state that "[t]he FCC is [sic] inflated search fees to obstruct this FOIA/Privacy Act [request] . . . claiming it will take 15.5 hours to search for these FOIA records" and arguing that the "Commission must detail how . . . [this request] would take 15.5 hours to [sic] search time."<sup>3</sup>

OGC staff explained how the estimated fee was reached in the Fee Estimate Letter:

Based on conversations with Commission staff familiar with the records in question, responding to your FOIA request is likely to take a substantial amount of staff time. Searching for responsive records will require canvassing multiple Commission staff members in different offices. Furthermore, the task of locating responsive records can be expected to be time consuming for individual staff members, given the breadth of the records you have requested.<sup>4</sup>

OGC staff went so far as to explain the precise portion of your request at issue, noting, "In particular, requesting all communications related to the cited FOIA appeal, along with

'all notes [and] all entries,' requires intensive searching by custodians." Staff then provided a breakdown of estimated search times by GS level, and gave an explanation as to why much of the search time would be performed by GS-15 staff. Other than an unsupported assertion, you have presented no argument or evidence as to why OGC's fee estimate should be considered in error. Therefore, you have failed to raise any grounds for appeal meriting Commission review, and your appeal is accordingly dismissed.

The remainder of your fifteen-page appeal is similarly dismissed on delegated authority. Many of your arguments center around the Commission's authority to require you to pay fees or respond within a set timeframe.<sup>7</sup> These arguments are either duplicative of earlier appeals you filed, which we have already addressed,<sup>8</sup> or are rendered moot by OGC's decision to treat your appeal as an indication that you do not authorize fees.<sup>9</sup> Your arguments regarding your right to file an appeal regarding a fee estimate are either duplicative of earlier appeals you filed,<sup>10</sup> which we have already addressed,<sup>11</sup> or are rendered moot by this letter, addressing your appeal. Your claim that you cannot be charged search fees because your initial request should be treated as a Privacy Act request is duplicative of earlier appeals you filed,<sup>12</sup> which we have already addressed.<sup>13</sup> Lastly, your arguments regarding the Commission's FOIA appeal process generally<sup>14</sup> do not specifically pertain to OGC's Fee Estimate Letter, and thus are dismissed for failing to allege specific grounds for review of the Fee Estimate Letter.

As explained above, the arguments raised in your Appeal are either duplicative of earlier claims, fail to raise specific grounds meriting Commission review, or have since been rendered moot. On the main point, alleging that OGC erred in its fee estimate, you do not elaborate on the reasoning underlying your argument or how you believe the fee estimate is inaccurate. You have not presented any argument that merits Commission review. Therefore, we dismiss your application for review under section 0.251(j) of the
